NOW THAT'S A PILE OF JUNK . . .

Some city residents are causing garbage crews considerable discomfort through their careless attitude in putting out refuse. Refuse placed in paper bags is not easy to handle, City Engineer E. F. Lawrence says people should have some consideration for the men doing the job. The bylaw defines garbage as any and all rejected waste cut into three-foot lengths, and tied in suitable bundles or placed in cardboard boxes, not weighing more than 75 pounds. Every householder, apartment house owner, or person who occupies any trade premises must provide galvanized receptacles approved by the city engineer. The bylaw specifies that all containers shall be kept in good condition and repair and accessible for inspection at all reasonable hours. When any receptacle which has been condemned by the city engineer as unfit it shall be removed and recommendation made that a suitable container be provided. The by-law says any person guilty of an infraction shall be liable on summary conviction to a penalty not exceeding $100 for each offence and a fresh penalty for every day or portion of a day during which the infraction continues. (Courier Photo)

Czechs Fear Occupation After Crisis In Prague

PRAGUE (Reuters) — Fears of Soviet occupation swept Prague today following unconfirmed reports of a major concession and a split in the Communist party presidium which threatened to tip the balance against First Secretary Alexander Dubcek.

Meanwhile, Soviet troops still in Czechoslovakia following joint manoeuvres were being kept as a security ring around Kremlin leaders when they arrive for the talks, possibly next Wednesday, informed sources said.

The troops, in the Zilina region of eastern Czechoslovakia, were part of security arrangements requested by the Soviet presidium, the sources said.

But reliable sources also said Dubcek again made it plain to Russia that any breach of sovereignty—such as stationing Russian troops in his country—was totally unacceptable.

One Communist source said a snap vote on the crucial policy issue of opposing Soviet demands went against the progressive wing of the party presidium by six votes to five.

DIDN'T BELIEVE REPORTS
A central committee spokesman said later he did not believe reports Dubcek was outvoted. But he added he could not be sure as he left before the end of the meeting.

The unconfirmed reports of a serious reversal for Dubcek could throw the entire timetable for proposed Prague-Moscow talks out of order.

Top Communist officials here expect the Russians to repeat an offer of military aid—between three and five troops divisions—to protect the Czechoslovak western flank with West Germany.

If this was rejected without any political compromise some form of occupation could not be excluded, one prominent party specialist predicted.

The report that Dubcek was outvoted followed a party presidium communiqué that appeared to indicate a major concession to Russia over the political command of the Czechoslovak army.

The Czechoslovak party presidium ordered Lt. Gen. Václav Prchlik back to army service and abolished the political department of the party which he headed. It controlled the army, security police and judiciary.

Prchlik July 15 told a news conference there should be a revision of the Warsaw pact to give the other members an equal voice with the Soviets. The Soviet leadership was also angered because he openly criticized the delay in the withdrawal of Russian troops from Czechoslovakia after the Warsaw pact manoeuvres in June.

Word Salvos Keep Flying

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Russia today maintained its verbal assaults against reformist Czechoslovakia with a charge that prominent figures there, including Communist party members, were propagating the "harmful concept of 'democratic socialism'." A 1,500-word article in the main Communist party newspaper Pravda by top commentator Yuri Zhukov also called Czechoslovakia's reversed first president, Tomas Masaryk, "the founder and chief ideologist of Bourgeois Czechoslovakism."

But the Soviet press was silent on Prague reports that progressive Communist party leader Alexander Dubcek was defeated by a 6-5 majority in the ruling party presidium last night.

'Escapees' Found Inside Prison

PRINCE ALBERT (CP) — Two Quebec men who were the objects of a three-day search after they were reported to have escaped from the Prince Albert penitentiary were found early this morning—still within the penitentiary walls.

An RCMP spokesman said George Wayne LeClerc, 28, of Montreal, and Robert Landers, 21, of Hull, Que., were found behind a false wall in the penitentiary kitchen.

Police had set up roadblocks and used tracking dogs in a search for the men in the surrounding countryside after they were missed following Tuesday's 3 p.m. evening mealtime

Rocky Would See 'New Order' Based Upon East-West Links

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller says as president he would work toward international creation of "a new world order" based on East-West co-operation instead of conflict.

The Republican presidential contender said he would begin a dialogue with China, if elected, to "improve the possibilities of accommodations" with that country as well as the Soviet Union.

Rockefeller said in a speech he would work to end the arms race and said the U.S. and Russia must co-operate to prevent small wars in areas such as the Middle East from mushrooming into big ones.

Senator Eugene J. McCarthy, a Democratic presidential aspirant, indicated meanwhile he will drop hopes of meeting with North Vietnamese diplomats in Paris to learn first hand the prospects for settlement of the Vietnam war.

McCarthy said in view of the Honolulu communique issued Sunday by President Johnson and South Vietnam President Nguyen Van Thieu, "the chances of my doing any good are significantly reduced."

CN Pensioners To Get Cheques

Canadian National Railways is making special arrangements to ensure that its pensioners in Kelowna and other Okanagan points receive their July pension cheques in time for July 31 cashing. The cheques normally are sent by mail either to pensioners' homes or their local banks. CN pension cheques customarily deposited in banks by the company will be credited to pensioners' accounts as usual. Railway spokesmen said those pensioners who usually receive their cheques by mail are advised to contact the following CN representatives: In Kelowna, terminal traffic manager G. E. Mitchell; in Penticton, terminal manager C. M. Kennedy; in Vernon, express agent A. G. Newton; in Summerland, dock agent S. C. Shenton. Approximately 250 CN pensioners live in the Okanagan.

Rails Plan Boost For Grain Flow

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canadian National Railways today said it will load about 600 cars with wheat from Prairie grain elevators to ease a backup caused by the strike of Lakehead grain handlers.

Canadian Pacific Railway announced plans Thursday to load 2,000 cars, clearing elevators for more farmer deliveries before the crop year ends July 31.

The two railways estimated they will load a total 5,200,000 bushels of grain before the crop year ends.

The "crash program", the request of Trade Minister Jean-Luc Pepin and W. C. McNamara, chief commissioner of the Canadian wheat board.

Farmers are paid for their grain when it is delivered to the elevators. Deliveries cannot be made until the plugged elevators are loaded into railway

Mr. McNamara said the backup was particularly affecting grain-growing areas in Manitoba and eastern Saskatchewan.

Gas Breaks Up Mob In Seattle

SEATTLE (AP) — Police said they used tear gas Thursday night to break up a group of disorderly persons in the city's predominantly Negro central area.

Officers said the tear gas was used when a group of 50 to 75 youths gathered across the street from Fairfield high school. Patrolmen moved in after the gas grenade was fired and the crowd dispersed.

A short time earlier a truck was set on fire.

Fire Marshal Stephen H. MacPherson said "civil disturbances" in Seattle have resulted in 102 arson fires causing total damage estimated at $385,861 since Jan. 1.

He said 54 of the fires were caused by firebombings. Most have occurred in the last three months, and especially this month.

CHICAGO (AP) — More than a dozen persons were injured Thursday night when Negro youths looted a food store on Chicago's North Side. (See Also Page 2)

Complete Accord Still Not In Sight

OTTAWA (CP) — A secrecy lid was clamped on the postal strike mediation talks early today by apparent agreement among the three main participants. But it was obvious to observers that complete agreement was not yet in sight.

Judge Rene Lippe, the federal mediator, spent more than 12 hours Thursday in closed-door talks with the chief negotiators for both sides. Informants said the sole topic was non-monetary items revolving around working conditions.

Douglas Love, negotiator for the government's treasury board, skipped out of the talks at 12:15 a.m. EDT today, avoiding waiting reporters.

Romeo Mathieu, Quebec organizer for the United Packinghouse Workers Union who has been called in to argue the postal unions' case, declined to answer specific questions.

"We had a free exchange," he said. "There was nothing negative exchanged."

Judge Lippe said the talks

"are now at a crucial point on non-pay items."

"We had a good day," he added, but refused to elaborate.

Mr. Love and Mr. Mathieu were scheduled to go into separate sessions today with their respective negotiating teams. Another mediation meeting with the judge was tentatively set for 8 o'clock tonight but could start earlier if both sides agree.

Earlier, officials of the Council of Postal Unions said they expected "good news" from Thursday's talks. But this optimism apparently fell foul of a long government reply to the unions' proposals on working conditions, laid down Tuesday.

Both government and union sources said the issue of working conditions is very complex. So far the mediation talks had dealt with generalities and not one specific item had been settled.

On Tuesday the union council presented a massive set of proposals based on a coalition board report into post office work rules.

Work Rules Issue Top Point

The work rules issue is a major point in the dispute. Postmen are complaining about a long list of working standards ranging from ventilation of post office quarters to the condition of mailbags.

The union council is demanding a 75-cent hourly increase on a 14-month contract with an added 20 cents for lower-paid categories. The contract, under legislation governing the first collective bargaining for federal public servants, would be retroactive to Sept. 1 of last year.

Two days before the national strike began July 18 the government offered a 15-cent hourly increase in two stages. It was angrily rejected by the unions.

This is the first postal walkout since 1965 when 12,000 workers struck for a week in Quebec, Ontario and British Columbia. This time about 24,000 postal clerks and letter carriers in all provinces are off the job. Another strike was narrowly avoided by mediation in 1966.

Top pre-strike rate for postal clerks was $2.75 an hour and for letter carriers $2.63.

Trudeaumania Hits Eskimos Way Up North In Arctic Circle

By GERRY MCNEIL

Canadian Press Staff Writer

"My name is Philip Ousie, and I am the oldest man in Grise Fiord," the Eskimo, his knees knocking and his big hands shaking, said. "This boy beside me is Paul Asee."

"We are very glad to see you thankful that for the first time a prime minister has come to Grise Fiord."

Pierre Elliott Trudeau, the first prime minister to venture into the high Arctic, sat before the old man and the boy in a tiny hall at Grise, where the whole Eskimo community of 94 had gathered.

Grise Fiord is the most northerly Canadian Eskimo habitation in the world. It sits on a tiny tip of rock beneath the ponderous cliffs and glaciers at the foot of Ellesmere Island, about 1,200 miles from the North Pole. The two-otter that brought Mr. Trudeau to the settlement curved through cold, thin mist over frozen Jones Sound, and landed on a short, mushy sand strip.

The prime minister, who also files, looked at bush pilot Weldon Phipps with admiration after the landing.

Once off the plane, Mr. Trudeau shook hands with the women in their beautiful embroidered parkas, their fresh-faced children and the tough, gentle men, who live by hunting whales and seals.

DANCE HONORS VISITOR

Then they trapped a gravelly mile to the village—there are no passenger vehicles in Grise Fiord—where the Eskimos held a square-dance to honor the visitor.

Josephine, son of Nanook of the North, the Eskimo on which the famous film of the 1920's was based, was there.

So was Philip Ousie, who was a bit player in the film.

The travelled prime minister, making his first trip ever into the Arctic, has compared the vivid scenery to that of the Swiss Alps. He has said several times since arriving in the North last Sunday that more Canadians should visit it.

Relief Corridor To Biafra Debated

LAGOS (Reuters) — Federal Nigeria and Biafra agree on a "relief corridor" into the break-away state, but still disagree on its supervision. Radio Biafra said in a broadcast monitored here today.

This was the first official indication that Biafra accepted a route, which the radio said would cover the 93-mile stretch from Enugu to Awgu and on to Okigwu.

The opening of a corridor to take relief supplies to refugees in the year-old civil war has been under discussion at preliminary peace talks between Federal and Biafran delegates in Niamey, Niger.

An Ally Of Castro Turns Up And Topples Bolivia Regime

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — The government of President Rene Barrientos fell apart Thursday night after the revelation that his interior minister was an ally of Fidel Castro and had smuggled a copy of Ernesto (Che) Guevara's captured diary to Cuba.

The Social Democratic party quit the four-party government coalition earlier in the day, withdrawing its four members of the cabinet. The other 12 cabinet members submitted their resignations.

Military leaders met in an atmosphere of crisis as unrest mounted around Barrientos, the former commander of the air force. A general was arrested.

"The president told reporters rumors of a coup were unfounded."

The president's troubles started when the Castro government published the diary which Guevara kept during his abortive guerrilla campaign in Bolivia last year.

The Bolivian government said the diary after its troops killed the Cuban guerrilla leader and claimed to sell it to foreign publishers. But Castro gave it to selected foreign publishers free, killing the sale for the Bolivians.

An army investigation revealed that Interior Minister

RENE BARRIENTOS ... arrest mounts

Antonio Arguedas had slipped the diary out to Castro, and Arguedas and his brother fled to Chile. Arguedas assumed there Wednesday night, the former minister told a news conference he was a Marxist humanist and an admirer of Castro.

Mr. Perrault said he was unable to obtain a fixed date for an appointment from Mr. Bennett's secretary Wednesday because "he's going to be on the road so much in August." But later, at a Government House garden party, the retiring provincial Liberal leader and Mr. Bennett met.

France Loses Gold Fortune

PARIS (AP)—French gold and foreign currency reserves dropped by the equivalent of $75,800,000 U.S. in the week ended July 18, Bank of France weekly returns showed Thursday.

This brought total reserve losses since the beginning of the May-June crisis to the equivalent of $1,984,000,000, including the two previously announced drawings last month from the International Monetary Fund totalling $885,000,000.

The reserve loss in the week ended July 18 was the lowest weekly drop since France reimposed exchange controls May 31. It compares with a loss of $189,000,000 a week earlier and a $398,000,000 drop in the week ended July 4.

Observers attributed the improvement to the recent tightening of exchange controls, which closed several loopholes.

The 350 miners, represented by the United Steelworkers of America, earlier voted 90 per cent in favor of strike action.

Pioneer Caravan All Set For Annual Merritt Trek

A group of Kelowna residents will answer the call of adventure this weekend and their action could "pave the way" for future followers.

The occasion—a pioneer caravan from Kelowna to Merritt sponsored by the Kelowna and Merritt Chambers of Commerce, publicizing a shorter route to Vancouver.

A pioneer journey was made last October, but this weekend it will be a two-day affair. For those who enjoy the first day of bumps and dust there will be a chance Sunday for more, as the party continues to Hope, via the Coquihalla Pass.

The caravan, which organizer Art Dave says will have a family theme, will leave the well-trodden Okanagan Lake Bridge at 10 a.m. Saturday for the frontier like highway, stopping for lunch en route and arriving in Merritt about 2:30 p.m. The vehicles will proceed via the Peachland-Pennask road and the Trautman-Garraway logging road, past Pennask Lake to the Alcoyn Creek bridge.

A stop will be made at this point for organization before entering the Nicola road.

Sunday, hopefully the caravan, aching bones and headaches notwithstanding, will leave Merritt, 84 miles from home, with only one thought in mind, Hope or bust. They say hope springs eternal, and hopefully this Hope will be no exception.

The party leaves Merritt for the 72-mile trip to Hope at 10 a.m. and is due there between 2:30 and 3 p.m. Weary, saddle sore and thirsty they will stop for refreshments at Coquihalla Lake, 40 miles from Merritt and at Boston Bar.

At Hope a civic welcome and no-host reception will be waiting, organized by the Hope Chamber of Commerce.

The Merritt to Hope route follows an abandoned CPR line, from which the tracks were removed several years ago.

The road is described as in good condition.

Any adventurer resolved to take up the challenge should have his pickup truck or four-wheel drive tuned and pack a picnic lunch.

Those intending to extend the journey to two days and remain in Merritt overnight are asked to contact Mr. Dawe so reservations can be made. A breakfast will be served in Merritt at 8 a.m. Sunday.

In October, 65 people made the trek from Kelowna to Merritt and at least an equal number are expected this time.

The Merritt-Hope route through the Coquihalla Pass would shorten the Merritt-Vancouver route by 72 miles and the total Kelowna - Vancouver distance via Merritt by 50 miles.

The plateau course to be taken by the caravan runs through a virgin area of rolling hills, park-like forests and nearly 500 lakes fed by the Nicola River. Last year the trip scheduled for August was postponed until October because of the forest fire scare.

Any adventurer with a yen for something new and exciting should find the trip stimulating and satisfying.

Pickets Reduced

All is quiet on the union front, says the president of the Kelowna local of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers.

Jack Prior, spokesman for letter carriers and postal workers says no problems have been encountered in this area.

Men on picket duty at the post office were reduced from four to two, because the larger number was found to be unnecessary, Mr. Prior said.

The union is not interfering with workers in other offices in the post office building, such as customs, following directions from provincial union officials.

"The feeling expressed to picket men on duty, is the public is on our side," Mr. Prior said.

No meetings are being held in this area and none are planned.

THE VALLEY SCENE

Since the City Park has been closed during the night, the mobile youth colony has been trekking across Okanagan Lake bridge after 10 p.m. nightly and back each morning. West side residents are wondering where they are sleeping now—on the reservation?

Students are fortunate to be able to obtain part-time summer employment at service stations, but it would be nice if somebody took time to give them a little instruction. At 10 p.m. Thursday one youth couldn't figure out how to open the hood of a rather common make of car. When another customer showed him how, we wondered if it was safe to let him measure the oil.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray McFadden, escorts of the Canadian Youth Hostel Association European tour, have advised parents through a CYHA representative in Vancouver who recently left the students in Paris, that all students are well. The students know there is a mail strike in Canada so they won't be expecting any letters from home nor will they be writing any.

Capt. D. A. Curran, the 1968 Canadian Armed Forces Red Knight, will have some time for "ground sightseeing" during his trip to Kelowna. The air ace performs at 8 p.m. Aug. 7, the Regatta's opening day. His show here is one of only 10 in Canada this year. Capt. Curran is due to wing into the Kelowna Airport on the Tuesday afternoon of Regatta Week and leaves on the Thursday morning.

Okanagan Auto Sport Club will host their summer bonnet party Sunday. All members interested will meet at the Vernon Super-Valu lot at noon.

The Tammany Trio who were to appear at the Regatta Aug. 8 will be unable to honor their commitments and will be replaced by another rock group, the True Factory.

Lady of the Lake candidates, who already have had one rehearsal have scheduled another Aug. 2 in Centennial Hall, and a final run through on the eve of the Regatta at the aquatic stage.

Traffic Offense Plan Explained

Traffic offenders of the future may not have to appear in court or be fined under a new program going into effect on an experimental basis in Victoria Oct. 1.

Ray Hadfield, provincial motor vehicle superintendent, in Kelowna this week to attend a meeting of the executive committee of the American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators, explained the proposed program.

When a person goes through a red light, or is given a ticket for a similar traffic offense, he may dispute it in court if he wishes. If he admits the offence, the information will be recorded in Victoria and when his driver's record shows an accumulation of offences, he may lose his licence, be asked to take a driver's training course or repeat a driver examination test.

Asked when RCMP personnel in Kelowna will be able to sit at a machine here and ask a computer in Victoria for information, he said the direct access program has been much discussed, but money is all that is stopping its being implemented.

From Kelowna Mr. Hadfield will continue his travels northward to Prince Rupert, returning to Victoria by boat.

to suspend a man's licence for 24 hours if he has been drinking enough to affect his driving ability) has been more noticeable in smaller communities than in large cities, the superintendent said.

"This may be because we are getting more aggressive enforcement of the curbside program in small centres," he said.

NO STATION

Mr. Hadfield does not think Kelowna will have a permanent motor vehicle inspection station for some time. He prefers calling it a "periodic" check rather than a "compulsory" one.

The program began in Victoria July 4 and will expand to Burnaby in the fall. Vancouver already has its own.

"The Coast and Lower Mainland first, then Kelowna and northern parts of the province," Mr. Hadfield said.

Asked when RCMP personnel in Kelowna will be able to sit at a machine here and ask a computer in Victoria for information, he said the direct access program has been much discussed, but money is all that is stopping its being implemented.

From Kelowna Mr. Hadfield will continue his travels northward to Prince Rupert, returning to Victoria by boat.

Cars Entering City Park Will Have To Pay Admission

When the blitz hits Kelowna Aug. 1 no one will be spared. At least that's the aim of Ald. Thomas Angus head of the blitz committee for the Kelowna International Regatta, Aug. 7-10.

Speaking before the executive committee of the Regatta Association, Thursday night, Mr. Angus urged community service groups, ladies' organizations, teen town and all interested persons to band together in making the ticket sale a success.

Under the plan, volunteers will issue passes good for the five days in a wholesale canvass of the business community. Three thousand tickets will be made up. They will sell in 200 books of five and the rest will be sold at $1 per book.

Mr. Angus said anyone willing to help can call the Regatta office or contact him personally.

BEER GARDEN

The meeting heard a report from Frank Addison, special events chairman regarding the proposed Bavarian Beer Garden. He indicated the Junior Chamber of Commerce was interested in operating the garden sharing expenses on a 50-50 basis. Under the scheme, which has been successful elsewhere (Expo and other places in B.C.) an admission charge of $1 would be made and beer sold by the ticket for 50 cents.

Located near the bear statues in City Park, it would run hopefully two days, Friday and Saturday.

Mr. Addison said some difficulty is expected in obtaining a licence from the RCMP but if opposition were encountered Monday when the approach is made, an appeal would be launched with the Provincial Liquor Control Board. Ald. Addison suggested a decision on the appeal would probably come 24 hours after it was presented and so awaiting permission would not set back progress of the Bavarian style affair.

A motion was passed approving the operation and policing of the garden by the Jaycees. Ald. Angus suggested 40 cents per glass would be a more equitable price for the beer.

Otherwise, the meeting cleared up one of the Executive Board's letter from city council approving a Regatta decision that all vehicles entering the park during Regatta would be charged $1 for four days parking.

ODDS AND ENDS

Fourteen convertibles have been arranged for VIPs, among whom will be Premier Bennett and Minister of Industrial Development Trade and Commerce Waldo Schillings.

REGATTA BRIEFS

Kelowna, Penticton Agree On Dates For Next Year

The 1969 Regatta will go Aug. 6 to 9, through a joint decision of the Regatta Association and the Penticton Peach Festival. However, prospective dates for 1970-73 have still to be approved by Penticton.

Chairman Murray Joyce said he was enthused by store displays announcing the Regatta and said he hoped many more would appear.

Jack Brow has replaced Ross Ladrner as head of park entertainment.

excepting those persons whose job made admission a necessity; the working press, public services and lawn bowlers.

A city council letter was read which endorsed the Regatta Committee's negative stand on granting free passes. A council request for 53 passes for needy senior citizens was left to the closed meeting for discussion.

Chairman Murray Joyce showed on a map the position of a fence to be built around the park perimeter which would permit oldtimers free access to the horseshoe pits, rose garden and bowling green. This would eliminate a problem which would arise should all facilities be tied up by the Regatta including those whose use is guaranteed by law.

Al Jensen, night show producer and director said the backdrop for the aquatic stage will be in place Aug. 5.

PROTOCOL

Following this was a long cumbersome discussion on protocol. Mayor R. F. Parkinson suggested that the list of priority should read Commodore, Regatta Master, Honorary Vice-Commodore and Vice-Commodore. Members of the committee, however, were not so sure.

They preferred last year's system in which Vice-Commodore ranked above Honorary Vice-Commodore. Committee was advised the deadlock could be resolved in a meeting between Chairman Joyce and Mayor Parkinson.

Ron Saunders, head of bands, said that because of the Whaley band's mishap, incurred recently when its bus left the highway near Revelstoke, the group would be unable to appear here. Mr. Saunders was given permission to negotiate with a 70-piece Lions' Band from Calgary as a replacement. He said he was pleased to announce that the Kamloops group band had agreed to entertain throughout the park following its performance, creating a carnival atmosphere.

An optimistic note was sounded for the Regatta parade. Parade chief Joe Holtz noted that 33 floats had been confirmed and that a plea to local merchants for participation had been answered. There will be 10 local floats including one valued at $1,000 contributed by an orchardist.

Fourteen convertibles have been arranged for VIPs, among whom will be Premier Bennett and Minister of Industrial Development Trade and Commerce Waldo Schillings.

Mrs. Avender Was Resident Of Kelowna For 59 Years

A longtime resident died in the Kelowna General Hospital Wednesday.

Katherine Avender, 85, was a resident of Kelowna for 59 years. She came to Canada from Hungary in 1908 and lived in Regina for one year. She arrived in Kelowna the next year on the SS Sicamous and had resided at 1470 St. Paul St. from 1925 until her death.

She is survived by her husband, John, three sons, John and Joe of Vernon, and Nick of Richmond, two daughters, Kay (Mrs. W. G. Wright) of Deep Cove, and Mary (Mrs. W. A. Johnson) of Kelowna. Twelve grandchildren, 21 great-grandchildren and three great-great-grandchildren also survive. One son, Peter, predeceased in 1947 and a granddaughter died in 1967.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 11 a.m. in the St. Paul's church. The Garden Chapel is entrusted with arrangements.

Pallbearers are Louis Schmidt, John Jaeger, Gerald Kennedy, Ralph Dutcher, Bruce Johnson and John Johnson.

SUNNY weather is again forecast for the Okanagan Saturday. Little change in temperature is expected with a low tonight of 55 and high Saturday of 90. Winds should be light. The low and high recorded in Kelowna Thursday were 56 and 89, compared with 56 and 98 on the same date a year ago.

STEADY IN VERNON

Tourism Down Slightly Here

Are there fewer tourists in Kelowna this year? Answers vary, indicating no clear pattern is established.

Bill Stevenson, Kelowna Chamber of Commerce manager, says inquiries are down about 400 from last year, but this can be attributed to the poor location of the information booth at the eastern approach to the city. For a while there was no sign indicating its location. This booth accounts for the lag in visitor inquiries.

INQUIRIES

To date a total of 5,800 inquiries have been made at the chamber office on the western approach and at the eastern booth. Last year there were 6,263 for the same period.

Large hotels in Kelowna report an increase in business this year, while several motels and tent and trailer owners said figures were down slightly.

Where business was down, two reasons were offered — poor weather and poor publicity on lake pollution.

Mr. Stevenson said motel owners reported a slow period early in July but things were picking up now and look good for August.

A quick check of service stations indicated business was up from last year and was described as "good".

A few retailers said business was down, grocery stores indicated it was up.

Kelowna does have more conventions booked this year, four in September which will bring 1,500 to 1,600 people into the city.

They are the National Fire Chiefs, Sept. 6 to 12, Pacific Northwest Trade Association, Sept. 13 to 17, B.C. Amateur Hockey Association, Sept. 20 to 22 and Automotive Retailers, Sept. 22 to 23.

The Vernon Chamber of Commerce says its inquiries are up 17 per cent and that service stations say sales are also up.

Of several tent and trailer camp operators questioned, one said business was double last year's, one was down and others were "well up."

Hotels and motels were about the same as last year, although motel operators said business was not steady as in other years. Some days they were filled to capacity, others showed many vacancies.

Stuart Hells, assistant manager of the Vernon chamber, said the suggestion has been made motel operators may be pricing themselves out of business, especially for family groups.

Vernon merchants report "no grumbles" on retail sales. "There is no alarm or despondency here," Mr. Hells said.

Numberwise, conventions for Vernon are about the same as last year, but convention days show a 25 per cent increase and are bringing more people to the city this year than last.

The Penticton Chamber of Commerce does a survey every two weeks and for the period June 28 to July 12, 2,280 cars, representing an estimated 7,980 people, stopped at the city's two booths and main office for information. Comparative figures for the same period last year are 1,691 cars, and 5,918 people.

Penticton motel operators report business is down a little and tent and trailer camps about the same as last year.

Conventions are up, with the legion convention bringing 3,000 people to Penticton.

Kelowna's big convention of the year was the Brian March.

Political Electioneering On A Dangerous Slope

Much has been written recently about the alienation of youth and its dissatisfaction with our democratic system. Indeed, there is much that needs shaking up, and some of the irrelevancies that were propagated in the election campaign must make a sincere democrat despair.

Surely nobody can take seriously Robert Stanfield's claim that the Liberal platform outline was nothing but "a long-winded essay on generalities," a product "of an ivory tower where unemployment, the cost of living, the shortage of housing, the misery of poverty, will never intrude to disturb the tranquility of the authors." Such campaign oratory may have been suitable a century ago. But we are now living in the electronic age when people think for themselves and expect that those who stand for public office will take them seriously.

It is quite proper to consider the approach of the opposing party to the nation's problems as wrong. It is equally proper to dissect the opponent's platform, showing where it is wrong and put forward a different solution. But to try to convince people that the opposing party has no conception of the issues facing the nation, may is not even interested in them, that it only aims at a "fast grab for power," is an insult to the electorate.

A classic example of this was in the recent three byelections in this province when government speakers labeled the NDP as "stupid" and "tin can." The NDP may be many things but the party certainly is not stupid. If there was any stupidity involved, it was on the government's part in the use of the word.

No wonder that young people are denigrating democracy which to them may appear not as a serious discussion of methods but as a Tweedledee-Tweedle.

dledum sham battle between the ins and the outs.

It was equally distressing to hear George Hees, the last person who should indulge in personality debates, accuse the prime minister of knowing nothing about economic matters. As it happens, Mr. Trudeau has a pretty good academic background in economics. His views may be different from those of Mr. Hees, and Mr. Hees has every right to show where they may be wrong or harmful. But to descend to personal invective is distressing to say the least.

Whether or not we wish so, the presidential type of politics has taken deep root in the Western world, and personalities do matter. But if the parties must attack personalities, they should do so on proper grounds. "Power grab" and "ignorance" and "stupid" are not only low tactics, but they demean the entire process of democracy. In due course the "stupid" or "ignorant" man may be elected to head the government. As was the case in the federal election when "Pierre the Performer" — with several highly prized academic qualifications — was re-elected prime minister. Are we not dragging our institutions and those who represent them into the mire? Are we not demarking on a dangerous slope that leads from disrespect for statesmen to disrespect for democracy, until tyranny fills the void.

Mr. Hees put it most succinctly: "If Mr. Trudeau can win the June 25 election for the Liberal party as 'Pierre the Performer' . . . if the public lets him get away with it, then they're more stupid than I thought."

Mr. Trudeau did "get away with it" and therefore in Mr. Hees' opinion the public is very, very stupid. This is arrogance that has no place in democracy, in which the voice of the people still counts as the voice of God.

One For The Law-Breakers

(Calgary Herald)

Sometimes it seems that more concern is being felt these days for those people who indulge in acts of violence than there is for their victims.

Take, for example, the considerable protest being expressed against equipping police forces with the riot-control chemical named Mace.

One of the prominent holders of public office, no less a person than Ontario's Attorney-General Arthur Wishart, has announced his opposition to the use of Mace by police forces in Ontario. He said recently that he hoped municipal police officials would stop purchasing and using the chemical so that it would be unnecessary for him to introduce emergency legislation to ban it.

Mr. Wishart was provoked into making his statements by leaders of the opposition Liberal and New Democratic parties. He asked that the police exercise restraint in the use of all weapons of force.

To plead for gentleness and forbearance on the part of our police forces is almost like inviting law-breakers to engage in their criminal and anti-social activities with impunity.

It is bad enough, though only to be expected, that criminal and hoodlum elements are quick to raise cries of police brutality these days whenever police have to be called in to restore order. But it is unforgivable for people holding responsible positions to fall for this sort of nonsense and do or say anything to weaken legitimate public defences.

Why should demonstrators who interfere with lawful pursuits of other people, who unlawfully occupy public or private premises, who throw rocks or disrupt meetings, deface property and otherwise provoke law-enforcement agencies, be accorded velvet-glove treatment? People who break the law court immediate counter-action from established authority. If they do not get it, they are only encouraged to go on to further and worse depredations.

An unfair burden is being placed on police officers when they are told to expose themselves to dangerous assaults without being able to use the most effective instruments available to put down the violence with a minimum of personal danger to themselves.

All this namby-pamby attitude towards law-breakers being displayed in so many quarters today can only lead to social breakdown unless it soon is replaced by a greater sense of realism.

DEBATE OF THE DEAF

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Heart Can't Shrink Unless It's Enlarged

By DR. JOSEPH G. MOLNER

Dear Dr. Molner:

A few years ago I had a routine physical and the doctor said I had a small heart. On my last physical recently the doctor said that, from X-rays and measurements, my heart is smaller than at the earlier examination.

Is there such a thing as one's heart shrinking? And what would cause this? I am in my early 40s.—Mrs. B.E.G.

The heart sometimes enlarges, but it does not shrink except in the sense that enlargement of the heart sometimes may show some return toward normal size.

For a classic example, although beriberi (a vitamin deficiency) can cause a heart to enlarge, the heart later will become smaller again when proper treatment—that is, proper diet and provision of necessary vitamins—is undertaken.

If enlargement of the heart is due to high blood pressure, some decrease in size may occur after the blood pressure is brought under control.

A "small heart" is not unusual in slender individuals who do not have wide chests. So long as your health is good otherwise, the size of the heart is not significant.

One other factor also can be involved. The only accurate way to determine the size of the heart is by X-ray. There can be a slight variation in apparent size, under perfectly normal conditions, depending on the exact moment the X-ray is taken.

If it is done at the moment when the heart is in systole (that is, contracted) it will appear a bit smaller than when the heart is in diastole—relaxed between beats.

Kangaroo Meat Grows Popular

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters)

—The kangaroo, emblem of Australia, may yet prove a financial lifesaver for farmers who now slaughter it as a pest.

Consumption of kangaroo meat and use of the hide is increasing throughout the world.

Prominent conservationists have begun talking about "controlled harvesting" of the kangaroo, whose flesh is sold in Britain for pet food and in some countries for human consumption.

The kangaroo is an important source of protein for a hungry world, with 32 per cent of its carcass edible, fat-free meat, compared with 26 per cent of a sheep and 32 per cent of a pig.

In the 12 months up to June, 1967, more than 1,400,000 kangaroos were reported shot in the states of New South Wales and Queensland.

They brought the kangaroo meat processing industry more than $5,000,000 Canadian in income.

NEWS ANALYSIS

Military Coups Quite Popular

By PHILIP DEANE,
Foreign Affairs Analyst

Three of the last four government changes in Iraq have been by military coup. The third has just taken place, putting back in power a man who fell because he was considered too moderate on Israel. He has now taken power again, accusing the man he displaced of being responsible for Iraq's military defeat at the hands of the Israelis in June 1967.

All diplomatic experts have been emphasizing that the new government of Iraq is not likely to prove wild and irresponsible on the Israeli question. In fact, it is likely to prove more moderate perhaps than its predecessor. Yet, it had to talk tough about Israel, to justify the coup d'etat.

By now, in Arab countries, there has been so much hate propaganda about Israel (and we are not examining here the substance of the Arab-Israeli dispute) that tough talk about the Jewish state has become automatic. If a government did not castigate the weakness of its predecessors towards Israel, everyone would wonder whether this was a major change of policy; the people in the Arab country in question might wonder whether this was a major change of policy; the people in the Arab country in question might wonder whether a new era had been borne.

We may find such talk extreme, but that is because in translation is sounds extreme to us. The Arab language, and many other languages have expressions which sound horrendous to our ears but do not necessarily mean what they say, much as "goodbye" seldom really means more than "see you soon" when we say it, though in fact, it means "God be with you."

But one suspects that there is one group in many countries, the Arab ones included, which takes political expressions of undying patriotism seriously. This is the young officer group. It consists, after all, of young men who are systematically indoctrinated to believe in the acquisition of personal and national glory by force of arms.

Their education in military school (the Canadian Armed Forces are a shining exception) is not designed to give the young officer a broad view of the world. On the contrary, apart from teaching him the tricks of his trade, from tactics and strategy to the mechanics of weaponry and communications, an Army seeks to make its young officer a good fighting machine, highly motivated and unquestioning.

To make a young officer highly motivated, most military schools teach him blatantly biased courses in history, in all of which he learns that the entire universe is still remembering the personal heroism of other young officers who served in the same army. For the French, Napoleon was the greatest general who ever lived and Wellington was simply an unimaginative clot who won perniciously because he and his troops were too stupid to know they were beaten.

So, military juntas—in countries where military juntas run things — are obliged to claim they have taken over for the sake of the country's military honor and safety; having taught young officers to think in such terms, one must speak to them in such terms to obtain their support. Luckily, as they grow older, young officers become cynical, and then they form a junta.

CANADA'S STORY

China Tea Helped Found CP Line

By BOB BOWMAN

On July 26, 1886, the three-masted sailing ship W. B. Flint arrived at Port Moody with a cargo of tea from China that had been loaded at Yokohama, Japan. Port Moody was then, and still is officially, the west coast terminal of the CPR. The dream of a short route between Europe and China had become a reality nearly 400 years after John Cabot had crossed the Atlantic and thought that Newfoundland or Cape Breton was China.

Four days after the arrival of the W. B. Flint, more than 17,000 chests of tea had been put on board a local CPR train that arrived in Montreal on Aug. 6. It was the fastest passage from Japan to Montreal ever attained. The tea was then distributed to cities in Eastern Canada and the U.S.A.

The success of the W. B. Flint encouraged the CPR to establish a regular steamship service, and three ships were ordered: Abyssinia, Batavia, and Parthia. They were the pioneers of the Canadian Pacific steamship line that became famous around the world. In fact it was soon possible for the CPR to advertise that it could carry passengers around the world in 80 days at a cost of only $600.

The trans-Pacific service was VERY PROFITABLE AND HAS SAVED THE CPR FROM BANKRUPTCY. During the depression in 1890s a number of railway lines in the U.S.A. went bankrupt, but the CPR went rolling and sailing along, making good profits.

Railways and steamships were an ideal combination, keeping each other busy. Their operations also benefited from Canada's drive for new settlers that attracted people from many parts of the world.

OTHER EVENTS ON JULY 26:

Most Lakes Improving

By JIM TREADGOLD

FISHING IS HOLDING quite steady in this area, the weather being conducive to above average fishing for this time of season.

There are a great number of tourist fishermen using the lakes, especially Okanagan Lake, where the main attraction is the Kokanee fishing, which is good. Okanagan is producing a lot of good sized Kokanee, with most being taken on the gang spinner and Dick nite or spin glo. During the day up to eight ounces of weight on approximately 100 feet of line is necessary for best results.

The large Kokanee being taken may have good sized eggs in them and the males may be starting to turn color and be a bit on the slimy side. These fish will start their spawning runs up the creeks in early September, but are still good prime fish to eat. Some anglers have been reporting some of the Kokanee they are taking appear to have fungus in the gills. This is not fungus and is normal, it is the plankton that gathers in the gills as Kokanee are gill feeders the same as the sockeye salmon, from which they are descended.

These fish are perfectly normal so do not be afraid to eat them. In fact, Kokanee as a gill feeder should not really take a lure, but they do take certain lures. Years ago they were rarely taken on hook and line. Whether the fish have changed or whether man has found lures they will take I do not know.

As a kid I used to take a few trolling in the Okanagan on the double Columbia spoon and worms, but the percentage was small to the trout taken, and there were just as many Kokanee in the lake, if not more, than there are now. At least the spawning runs in all the creeks were far bigger than they are today.

Of course there is no way of gauging the shore spawn runs in time of say 40 years ago and today.

All I know is they are today being caught by the thousands and are a big tourist attraction. It gives the tourist something interesting to do.

IT TOOK A tourist to show us a new way to take Kokanee. Dr. Herbert Fitterman of Vancouver was casting off a dock at Casa Loma one evening earlier this week using a Muddler fly of all things, and hooked and landed two nice Kokanee.

I have often thought when seeing these fish rising by the hundreds on calm summer evenings that it should be possible to take them on the fly. I have never tried it but some day I will. They would be a lot of fun taken this way.

A few of the smaller sized trout from one to two pounds are also being caught on the Kokanee lures and one angler reported taking some nice sized trout on deeply trolled wobblers.

Reports from Shuswap are only fair. Deep lines, either steel or leaded are giving the best results, and a number of bigger fish being taken are the Lake or Grey Trout.

A few good reports from Bear Lake this past week, with one angler reporting a limit of nice trout taken on the Grey Sedge and Deer Hair Nymph flies on small hooks. It is believed Bear Lake water level will be raised about 10 feet in the near future, perhaps next year for irrigation purposes.

This will mean the moving the camp to higher ground on the east side of the lake. This could make Bear a better lake for the fisherman.

Reports from Jackpine Lake have been fair to good. It is still necessary to walk the last bit into the lake.

Beaver Lake is still picking up, with the best fishing in the evenings. As the high water recedes from the flooded areas better fishing can be expected here. The road in is good, having been graded last week.

DEE LAKE CHAIN is about the same with evenings the best time to fish. The lakes outlying from Dee have been good with a nice catch of bright trout up to three pounds being taken last week on First Fly Lake by Roland Neault and Carl Hein. These were taken on the Muddler fly. Wilma and Alec Mountain Lakes are also giving up some nice fish and a five pounder was taken at Doreen. Road to Dee has been graded and is much better.

Ken McCready and Cliff Frost took limit catches of trout up to 2 1/2 pounds on the fly at Browne Lake this week. They were using the Green Sedge and Doc Spratley flies. Cliff was in Kelowna just a short time, installing some special equipment at the hospital. He hails from England, and thought this area was a paradise. He fishes the streams in England, providing he can get standing room.

Eric Bateson and myself went into State Lake in the Christian Valley last weekend. It was more of a scouting trip to find the lake than a fishing trip. We did fish a couple of hours at noonday, but the only fish taken was a one pounder caught by Eric.

Access to the lake is from the forestry road from Christian Valley to the top end of Trapper Creek. It takes approximately one-half hour to walk from the road into the lake. There are good sized trout in the lake, I have heard up to 14 pounds. I noted some fish entrails, left by fishermen in the lake and we judged they were from fish in the three to four pound size.

There are no boats on the lake, but there are a few good rafts, some fitted for an outboard motor. Nevertouch Lake, which is in this same area, has been producing well to date. I was told this by other anglers in the area. I know Nevertouch fish are very nice and run up to four pounds.

WE WENT OVER via Beaverdell and Beaver Creek to Christian Valley and came back via the forestry access road to Trapper Creek.

This road has been improved and a new road has been built up Trapper Creek, which is a 50 mph road put in by Boundary Sawmills to take out logs. This new road is being extended all the way to the Big White Mountain road and will open up a lot of new area for hunting, and the odd lake for fishing.

Also the forestry is putting in another access road west of the Christian Valley road, which will open up access to a number of lakes reported to have good fishing, and some back country for hunting.

The expression "away back" will soon be gone. This is the expression that hunters used when explaining where the deer were.

Pennask Lake is producing a record number of fish this season, with increasing numbers of fishermen finding this lovely lake. No doubt the game branch will put on some restrictions on this lake in the near future to ensure the fish population in the lake does not decline to any degree. This lake is necessary to the department's restocking program as it produces a good percentage of the fish eggs for the hatchery program.

The road to Pennask is much dirtier and a number of cars are going in, but the last four miles are rough.

Hidden Lake on Pennask Mountain is producing bigger fish of late. The road in is much dirtier but still a four-wheel-drive road. I have the keys for the two boats and cabin on the lake which belong to Sandy Fenwick of Pennask Lake.

FLYING SAVE BY CLIPPER

California Clipper goaltender Mirko Stojanovic (11) makes a flying save in first half action against the Pittsburgh Phantoms, both of National Professional Soccer League at Oakland. The teams tied 3-3 in spite of Stojanovic's effort, a high-scoring contest by soccer standards.

Royals Put On Power Display But Effort May Be Too Late

The Royal Anne Royals are flexing their muscles in the Senior B Softball circuit but the display of power may have come too late.

The Royals whipped Vernon O'Keefe 8-2 at King's Stadium Thursday in a rescheduled game. But unofficial league standings (official standings are unavailable) show the Royals relegated to second place in the five-team league, behind the pac-setting Rutland Rovers.

Nick Bulach was the big gun Thursday, driving in two runs with a first-inning homer and helping along a second-inning rally with a single. Ed Sehn also played a prominent role, knocking in three runs with his second-inning homer.

Sehn followed with another round-tripper in the fifth inning with nobody aboard. And not to be out-done, Jack Unser hit a solo homer in the third inning.

Gib Loseth allowed Vernon two first-inning runs, then took advantage of his overwhelming support to set down the losers on two hits the rest of the way. He struck out four men and retired the last 10 batters in a row.

Ken Oddleifson, going the full distance, was the losing pitcher.

She meets Dorothy Leighton of Vancouver who defeated Mary Stimpson, also of Vancouver, in an extra hole.

Miss Renwick and Miss Palmer, in spite of their wins, were not especially happy with their golf.

Miss Renwick, who says she has been playing badly all year, added she was happier with her game Thursday than an unofficial 79.

Miss Palmer had an unofficial 78 Thursday and Miss Renwick an unofficial 79.

Former Champs In B.C. Finals

Two 18th-hole victories Thursday launched a pair of former champions into the finals of the British Columbia women's closed golf championship.

Marilyn Palmer, 21, of Kamloops and Barbara Renwick, 25, of Vancouver, who have divided three championships in the last four years, both scored one-up victories at the Kelowna Golf and Country Club.

Miss Renwick, who scored a major upset Wednesday by knocking off defending champion Susan McCleery of Vancouver, almost had the tables turned on her by 17-year-old Helen Marlatt of Chilliwack.

Miss Marlatt, B.C. junior champion for the past two years, fought back from a four-hole deficit after 10 holes to tie the match with wins on the 11th, 12th, 13th and 14th.

The next three holes were halved but Miss Marlatt missed a six-foot putt on the 18th which would have sent the match into extra holes.

Miss Palmer, two down early in her match with Gail Harvey Moore of Vancouver, bounced back to score a minor upset over the former Ontario champion.

Mrs. Moore trailed by one going into the final hole, where she sank an eight-foot putt for a birdie. But Miss Palmer sank her four-foot birdie putt to gain a half on the hole and a victory in the match.

The two victors were scheduled to face each other today in the 36-hole final but the experience will be a familiar one for both competitors.

They met in the 1964 final in Penticton when Miss Renwick won. But Miss Palmer came back to win the championship in 1965 and 1966.

Kelowna's Joan Campbell also kept alive her hopes of pulling off a victory in the first flight by defeating Joyce McNamara of Vancouver five-and-four.

She meets Dorothy Leighton of Vancouver who defeated Mary Stimpson, also of Vancouver, in an extra hole.

Miss Renwick and Miss Palmer, in spite of their wins, were not especially happy with their golf.

HITHER and YON

Kelowna golfers who have been enjoying lunch and tea at the Kelowna Country Club while watching the expert players taking part in the B.C. Close, have been very interested in hearing the flattering comments made by the players about Kelowna's interesting and beautiful course, and their talk about the extra fun they have had swimming in Kelowna pools and cruising the lake. In fact quite a few contestants have been heard to say that they will be back next year for sure for a golfing holiday.

An item of special interest in Wednesday's play was the match between Mrs. A. D. Russell of the Point Grey Club and Mrs. L. Perrett of the Fraser View Club, which was finally won by Mrs. Russell on the 28th hole. The girls' marning, the score board had been wondering what had happened to them for at least an hour, and were thinking of sending out a search party when they finally arrived in after the eight extra holes.

A box of delicious Okanagan cherries donated by Captain C. R. Bull and set by the score board was very much appreciated by the players when they arrived in hot and tired Wednesday.

Mrs. Oliver Anderson and Mrs. A. Martin entertained their Shaughnessy Golfing friends at a delightful after five party held at Capri on Thursday.

Mrs. Earl Anderson and her two grandchildren from Vancouver are enjoying a holiday at the Eldorado while visiting Mrs. J. S. D. McClymont.

Visitors to Kelowna last week were Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Allison with daughters Tracey and Lana, of Williams Lake. They enjoyed the Kelowna sunshine and visited with a sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Auty of Kelowna.

Back for their fourth visit to Kelowna are Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Evenson from Edmonton who are enjoying a golfing holiday here.

Visiting Dr. and Mrs. A. S. Underhill is the latter's sister Mrs. C. R. McLeod from Kamloops who is enjoying watching the B.C. Close.

Mrs. A. C. Norwich arrived from Vancouver on Wednesday, and is spending several days visiting her sister, Mrs. E. C. Maile, Imperial Apartments.

Other visitors to Kelowna this summer are Mrs. Fred Hackney and her two sons, who are here from Whitehorse, Y.T. visiting Mrs. Hackney's mother, Mrs. O. V. Maude-Roxby.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. John N. Wemp, Okanagan Mission, this week are Mr. and Mrs. James Rae from Lethbridge, and their daughter, Debra.

After a three-week visit here with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Myring, Margaret and Patricia Myring will return to their home in Vancouver this weekend with their father, W. F. Myring, who arrived on Friday with his daughter, Sandra and his son, Bill.

Visiting Mrs. F. W. Pridham for ten days are her daughter Mrs. Keith McDonald and her two grandchildren Andrea and Jock, who accompanied her home by air from Vancouver. Mrs. Pridham has been holidaying for the past six weeks.

Visiting Kelowna this week are former Red Knight Capt. William Slaughter, and Mrs. Slaughter, with their daughters Corinne and Collette, of Winnipeg. They are visiting their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Auty, Buckland Ave., and Mrs. Edith Stevens, Highland Drive South.

TO BE MARRIED

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Shunter of Rutland announce the engagement of their youngest daughter, Chrissie Martha, to Robert John Park, only son of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Park of Vermillion, Alberta. The wedding will take place August 31 in the Rutland United Church with Reverend Hall officiating.

Shower Honors Sheena Ferworn

Miss Sheena Ferworn was the guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Porter on Tuesday at 8 p.m.

Co-hostesses for the occasion were Miss Denise Porter and her mother, Mrs. George Porter, and their East Kelowna home was beautifully decorated with yellow streamers and white balls, as was the festive chair for the guest of honor.

Mrs. Brian Porter was in charge of the decorating, and also made the lovely corsages presented to Miss Ferworn, her mother and the bridesmaid Miss Mary Jane Assman.

The bride-elect was made of pink tea roses, her mother's of yellow tea roses, and the bridesmaid's corsage was of multi-colored gladioli.

The bride-to-be's table was covered with a very beautiful light ecru lace cloth with delicate daisies embroidered in pink, green, mauve and yellow, finishing it in a double scalloped edge, and a low bowl of yellow and salmon pink gladioli centered the table.

Piled high in a laundry basket trimmed with a large bow made out of a green bath towel were many lovely and useful gifts which Miss Ferworn was assisted in opening by her mother and bridesmaid and after they had been passed around for the guests to see the bride-elect expressed her thanks to her friends.

A social hour followed during which delicious refreshments were served to the 25 guests, and assisting the hostess in serving were Miss Kathy Stirling, Linda Stirling and Miss Lori Bearisto. A special bride's cake consisting of one layer of chocolate and one layer of white cake was beautifully decorated in white and silver with pink rose buds in each corner, and highlighted the supper when served by Miss Denise Porter.

VENICE, Italy (AP) — A painting of the Madonna and Child has been found beneath a later version of the same picture hanging over the main altar of St. Mark's Cathedral. The discovery of the older picture under a 10th century Byzantine-style picture poses the problem of whether to preserve the later picture or restore the older one.

Canadian Fashion Designers Emerge Into The Limelight

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian designers may never influence trends and fads as do those in Paris, London, Rome and New York. Certainly at present Canada has neither the buying population nor the export trade necessary to build up major international recognition for her designers.

However, several excellent native designers have recently emerged, and Canadian manufacturers are overcoming their timidity about new approaches. For many years they merely adapted American designs to Canadian tastes. Now several more-aggressive firms are utilizing the talents of Canadian designers with boutique collections in their own seasonal shows.

A pioneer in this designer approach is the firm of Auckie Saint in Montreal. Three years ago Mr. Saint invited Canadian designer John Warden to return from New York where he was then working and design a boutique collection for him. It was a successful venture and Warden designed three seasonal collections for Saint before widening his career to two other houses.

Two of Warden's fall '68 designs for Hudson's Bay of Toronto won top awards in the fourth annual "Eclat" fashion awards, originated by the Ontario department of economics and development and sponsored by the Ontario Fashion Institute.

Another Canadian is Leo Chevalier, whose fast-rising success story culminated last spring in Montreal with top recognition in the National Collection and Canadian Fashion Awards Gala, sponsored annually by the International Ladies Garment Workers' Union. His suit-and-cape ensemble was declared Best of Show by a judging panel of nine Canadian fashion writers, winning over glamorous evening gowns and handsome fur creations.

However, awards for Canada's two major fashion competitions are not necessarily a true evaluation. Only Ontario firms may enter the Eccles awards since this is purely an Ontario project. The National Collection is wide open but actually concerns only those firms which wish to pay the entry fee. So any winner in either show is only in competition with a part of the whole manufacturing field.

There is also a third competitor, the Cot Canadian Fashion Critics' Awards, an extension of the well-established Coty Awards in the United States. This was inaugurated last year. Nomination ballots were sent to fashion and women's editors across the country, and then a panel of seven fashion editors from Vancouver, Winnipeg, Montreal and Toronto selected the winners.

ANN LANDERS

A Word To The Wise Should Be Sufficient

Dear Ann Landers. Several weeks ago I attended a discussion group on malnutrition in the USA. I left the place depressed and determined to do something for the disadvantaged children in this country. When I arrived home there was a note from the school nurse saying our youngest boy should be taken to a physician for a checkup and put on a nourishing diet. The note said he is seven pounds underweight, has too many dental cavities, was absent from school an excessive number of days, and he needs to eat less junk and more wholesome food.

I was furious and assumed the nurse must have a grudge against our son or she would not have written such an insulting note. After all, we are an upper middle-class family, not slum dwellers.

I took the boy to the doctor the following day and learned our boy was in appalling physical condition—anaemic, underweight, the works. The doctor lectured me about mothers who allow their children to develop poor eating habits. He pointed out that many children from well-to-do families are in the same boat. As for the bedroom slippers, that was a rotten trick. Ask Maggie how she'd like it if you threw away her old beat-up girdle. I'll bet she'll understand your feelings a lot better after THAT question.

Dear Ann Landers: My wife has a mania for giving away, throwing out or "misplacing" other people's property. Mainly, mine. I have begged, pleaded and asked her in as nice a way as I know how to please keep her hands off my things. She doesn't seem to hear me. Maggie insists on "straightening" my desk and "neatening"

The next thing I know, valuable papers are missing. When I reach for a back issue of the newspaper or magazine which I set aside for reference, she tells me she burned it two months ago. Last night I searched high and low for my bedroom slippers. When I asked Maggie if she had seen them, she said they were worn to shreds and she couldn't look at them anymore, so she threw them out. I realize they were rather shabby, Ann, but it took me six months to get them really comfortable and I was pretty upset about it. I admit I'm a bit of a hoarder but shouldn't a wife respect her husband's rights in the house? —MINNEAPOLIS COY

Dear Ann: When a pack rat marries a hoarder, you're bound to be trouble. You can't cure her but you can protect yourself by putting your papers and magazines away — out of sight. Most hoarders toss out things because they are cluttering up a room. (Some women report their husbands' dens are fire hazards.)

As for the bedroom slippers, that was a rotten trick. Ask Maggie how she'd like it if you threw away her old beat-up girdle. I'll bet she'll understand your feelings a lot better after THAT question.

Writer A Pretty Busy Fellow And Loves Every Minute Of It

NEW YORK (AP)—Just a year ago, Mart Crowley was running like crazy from the world and himself.

Then he wrote a play that just about everyone said couldn't be done, and now the frail little chap is basking in that long longed-for limelight.

"I'm a pretty busy person these days," he says. "It's lovely."

The Boys in the Band, the sad-funny caper responsible for Crowley's contentment, was welcomed to the off-Broadway lineup by a chorus of critical raves.

Now, six foreign productions are set. CBS, branching into feature TV film production, has bought the property and even signed the author as producer.

AVOIDS SENSATIONALISM
The reason for all the attention the play is getting is that it is the most unabashed and forthright account of the world of homosexuality yet seen in this era of growing artistic permissiveness.

Candor is its own reward, however, for peep-show sensationalism is absent and the dramatic substance has universal appeal.

"I'm not out to become the spokesman for the homosexual," Crowley says. To prove it he is working on another play about heterosexual relationships.

"The only thing I felt about the way homosexuality has been dealt with previously was that it was always used as the sensational disclosure in a play—the great surprise or something. Then the person always ended up hanging himself or sticking a revolver in his trap and calling it quits.

"And I just thought that's such a cop-out. It just doesn't happen that way."

MOTHER A DREAMER

In his hometown of Vicksburg, Miss., his father, now dead, ran a pool hall and cafe. His mother, who hasn't been up to see her boy's success, he depicts as "a total non-realist who lives totally in dreams—her influence made me reject everything ugly."

From 1957 to 1960, after university, he worked around New York movie studios, tried to become a member of the scenic designers union. Actress Natalie Wood took him to Hollywood for a couple of years as her private secretary. About then he began collecting rejection slips from TV, film and magazine editors.

Then came a period of floating around Europe, a first film sale that brought him home. The project collapsed and Crowley worked on script commissions that never bore fruit.

Last May he fled after a

KELOWNA DAILY COURIER, FRI., JULY 26, 1968 PAGE 3A

particularly disastrous film assignment. First stop was Acapulco "which I hated," then a small village on Mexico's west coast.

Then The Boys in the Band began to emerge.

WROTE PLAY IN WEEKS

He'd been thinking about the play for six months and turned out the manuscript in four or five weeks.

"Everybody I showed it to said 'You must be kidding.' My agent reluctantly agreed to send it out. She thought it just too much, a play nobody would do for five or 10 years."

Richard Barr, one of Edward Albee's original producers, took the play, raised $12,000 to produce it, and eventually assembled players for the one straight and eight homosexual roles.

Then Something Awful Happened: We Became Older Girls, Says Patti

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — I'm grateful for this opportunity to thank those of you who saw me on the Ed Sullivan Show, Music Hall and other television series and wrote how pleased you were that I had come out of retirement.

Appreciative as I am, I must make a confession. I did not retire— unless you call seven months on the road in night clubs and recording two albums and eight singles annually retirement.

It was the other way around. TV retired from me—and from such talented female singers as Rosie Clooney, Kay Starr, Jo Stafford, Polly Bergen and, to a lesser extent, Dinah Shore and Peggy Lee. These singers not only dominated the record industry's "charts" in the 1950s but television as well. Most of us had our own TV series. In fact, Dinah and I had our own shows for several seasons.

OLD AT 30

Then something awful happened. We became 'older girls.' In an industry where everyone was suddenly competing to appeal to the "youth market," we were guilty of the most serious sin of all—having past our 30th birthdays. It seemed as though the only way to be seen on television, until last year, was to be a long-haired, short-skirted teenie bopper.

The result, unfortunately, was that a lot of girls in micromini-skirts were revealed to have micromini talents as well. Spirited away from the electronic sanctuary of a modern recording studio, and thrust before the TV cameras, they could do little but look sexy as they frugged and bugaloed and desperately lip-synched their latest "hits."

Others, with marvellous potential, were pushed too far too fast. At a time when they should have been learning how to create that delicate rapport between performer and audience — which distinguishes an adequate club singer from a star—they were being rushed from one TV guest shot to another.

GENUINE TALENT

A few of the girls who had big hits turned out to be genuinely talented. They could have done a waltz or rumba and been sensational in this or any other era. Dionne Warwick and Aretha Franklin are two lovely examples.

But two or three performers cannot make all of the guest appearances by girl singers on television. And while my reaction to the Lolita psychology of network variety shows was admittedly personal, it was objective, as well. If I'd lost my voice or been involved in some dreadful scandal, I'd have accepted television's disinterest philosophically. This was different.

I thought, for example, of Kay Starr who, over a span of years, had sold millions of records. I couldn't believe that the people who'd purchased those records —and made Kay a star—had suddenly deserted her en masse. The public is more loyal than that. There are quite a few folks past the age of 25 who would like a dash of musical sentiment after dinner as well as Yeah, Yeah, Yeah.

TV producers have begun to sense this. The teenie boppers still lead the big parade, but we're seeing more and more of the veterans.

The Seagull Flutters In

STRATFORD, Ont. (CP) — The Stratford Festival's production of Anton Chekhov's The Seagull brought more enthusiasm from critics than Tuesday's opening night audience which gave the cast little more than polite applause.

The first of two plays to be presented at the Avon Theatre during the festival's 16th season, The Seagull is a realistic drama, set in late 19th century Russia, depicting in romance and tragedy the breaking of the human spirit.

Herb Whittaker of the Toronto Globe and Mail called The Seagull "a masterpiece" and praised director Jean Gascon's "slow-paced production" for its "stillness" which "allows us to hear the echoes within the plot as they repeat and repeat."

He credited William Hutt as Trigorin with "taking the central place in the evening."

CONVINCING CHARACTERS
Joan Irwin of the Montreal Star said:

"Jean Gascon has fortunately been unable to assemble a fine cast which is able to surmount the innumerable pitfalls by creating complete, convincing characters whose hopes and despair are entirely engrossing because they are so very real."

She applauded William Hutt for "a performance notable for its subtlety and delicate attention to minute detail."

Ralph Hicklin of the Toronto Telegram was another critic to proclaim Hutt as "the centre of the play."

Mr. Hicklin, however, faulted both Denise Pelletier, in the role of Arkadina, and Dainard for going "astray from the Chekhovian path."

HAVE SAME BIRTHDAY
Linda Kaye of TV's Petticoat Junction, and her father, Paul Henning, producer-creator of the program, were both born on September 16.

Thoughts Go On Behind Glasses And Hair Of Young Musician

TORONTO (CP) — Behind David Rae's metal rimmed glasses and longish blond hair is a sensitive young musician concerned about things far beyond the realm of music.

Rea 22, managed to find time for an interview between a picture-taking session and a trip to the laundromat in the back room of a Yorkville coffee house crammed with signs of now-defunct competitors.

Rea began his career as a guitarist in his hometown, Akron, Ohio, playing classical guitar but became frustrated by its limitations.

"Classical music hasn't changed since Bach," he said. "I found my thing listening to a folk-singer few have ever heard of—Edda Baker. I heard her on an old record and said 'Hey, that's the way I want to sound'."

He came to Toronto in 1964 and joined the Allan Ward Trio as second guitar. When asked why he came to Toronto, he replied:

"This is my favorite city. It's got a cosmopolitan atmosphere I like. It's a northern Los Angeles but with the drive of New York. When I heard Ian and Sylvia—an internationally-known folk duo—were up here, I knew it couldn't be all bad."

ON HIS OWN

He joined Ian and Sylvia late in 1966 and grew with them, but now he is trying it on his own.

"By now I figure I've played with everyone I wanted to and I'm going solo. I'll hit the coffee-house circuit—Toronto, Ottawa, Montreal and the United States."

When asked why he didn't plan to go across Canada, he replied:

"I've played all across the country—I've even played to a group of Eskimos in the Yukon—but there just aren't any clubs out there. If there were I'd be playing them."

Going it alone, is a major change for Rea, regarded as one of the finest young guitarists, but it's only part of the development of popular music he spoke of.

"The difference between the music of the Negro and white races is disappearing. In Nashville, Tenn., a lot of Negro musicians are listening to white stuff and the white guys are learning from the black tradition."

"A big thing is the popularity of the electric guitar and the recording studio. The electric guitar is a completely new instrument. I use both an electric and acoustic guitar—acoustic when I'm on stage."

"When you're live it's like doing a sketch, but in the recording studio you can fill it in and create a complete picture."

"The old division between folk and rock guitarists is also breaking down. I don't like to be called a folk-singer because it doesn't mean anything now. I'm just like most songwriters—I write about my own personal experiences, what I see around me."

THEMES ARE CURRENT

What does David Rea see?

"Most of my songs deal with the problems people face in our changing society—poverty, disease and person-to-person hangups."

Rea is also concerned with the problems other countries face.

"I think society—and by that I mean the whole world—can only progress as fast as its slowest member."

"Look at the people in Nigeria. We here can't go anywhere until they're out of the hole they're in. We're all responsible for what is happening there because the white race raped Africa."

"I've spent the last few years getting myself and my music together and now I'm determined to use it to do good things and help people."

Maybe A Few Sets Will Darken As Violence Bows From TV Plays

NEW YORK (AP) — Writers are tearing up pages of scripts. Editors are hunting bits of film dropped on the cutting room floor. Catsup and blank bullet sales to studio prop men are declining sharply.

The U.S. television industry is —once again—"de-emphasizing violence."

It has happened before and, to professional television-watchers, the action looks much like one of TV's own re-runs—with a difference.

During, and for a time after, the widely-publicized U.S. Senate subcommittee hearings in 1963 when the subjects of television sex and violence were explored, the round-house fights that seemed to climax every action show turned into one or two well-placed blows. There was a moratorium on lynchings and torture scenes. The number of cold-blooded killings in cops-and-robbers shows dropped perceptively.

But slowly they all started creeping back into the so-called "formula shows," the series that must grind out from 26 to 32 different episodes each season to be enacted by the same basic cast.

This time, however, it is not the same. Television, as well as its sister medium, motion pictures, is under criticism in the aftermath of the assassination of Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. and Senator Robert F. Kennedy and amid disturbances in cities and on campuses throughout the U.S.

Within days of the announcement of a presidential commission to study violence top executives of the three major U.S. networks announced or let it be known through their public relations departments that they were stiffening controls over the portrayal of violence.

Some episodes of next season's batches of programs now in production will be changed, a CBS spokesman said, with the time spent in fighting and shooting drastically chopped down. One show immediately affected is Gunsmoke; another is Wild, Wild, West.

The big question is where to draw the line between action and violence. The keystone of all drama is conflict and, in television's tight half-hour and hour-long formats, physical conflict is most useful and easily handled. Its complete elimination will present difficult writing problems and—worse from the network's point of view—might darken a lot of living room sets.

Robert Kasmire, NBC vice president, was optimistic:

"The best way to handle it is to encourage the creative people—the writers and producers—to come to another means of playing out the climaxes of stories."

He added tentatively:

"Instead of shooting an escaped villain, maybe he could be talked back to jail."

Sophia And Her Husband End Case Started 11 Years Ago

ROME (AP) — An Italian criminal court Wednesday cleared actress Sophia Loren and her husband, producer

Carlo Ponti, of bigamy charges, finally ending a case that began against the movie couple 11 years ago.

The court issued a decision absolving the couple completely, stating they were never legally married in Mexico in 1957 as charged.

The action followed a decision handed down by a civil court of appeals April 27, 1967, which ruled that the proxy papers for the Mexican marriage lacked required signatures and therefore a legal marriage did not take place.

While the case was dragging on, Miss Loren and Ponti were married in Paris in April, 1966, after Ponti became a naturalized French citizen.

The bigamy case began just a few weeks after the couple's proxy marriage in Mexico in 1957. With no divorce permitted in Italy, Ponti had obtained a Mexican divorce from his first wife earlier that year.

Then a few weeks after his proxy marriage to Miss Loren, some private citizens in Italy filed bigamy charges against them.

Two TV Stars Seeking Divorce

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actor Robert Lansing was divorced here by actress Emily McLaughlin. "He said he no longer wished to be married," Miss McLaughlin testified in Superior Court. The Lansings, married 12 years, have a son, 10.

Gibson Blanks Phillies; Lengthens Win Streak

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Patience finally paid off for Jim Northrup and Joe Torre, but against Bob Gibson it appeared almost useless.

National League hitters have been waiting in vain since May 28 for Gibson, St. Louis Cardinals' hard-firing right hander, to lose.

The veteran hurler blanked Philadelphia Phillies 5-0 Thursday night on five hits for his 11th consecutive victory and eighth shutout of the season.

Now 14-5, Gibson has yielded more than three runs only once in those 19 decisions. In his last 92 innings he has allowed only two runs.

So the wait goes on against Gibson, but for Northrup and Torre, it has finally ended.

Northrup waited since July 4 and Torre since June 20 to break a home run slump.

Northrup had two homers, driving in three runs, as Detroit Tigers posted a 4-1 rain-shortened victory over Washington Senators in the only American League contest.

Torre unloaded a three-run clout in Atlanta Braves' 4-2 triumph over New York Mets.

In the only other game in the National League, Cincinnati Reds scored a 2-0 victory over Pittsburgh Pirates.

... overpowering

Gibson struck out six, walked one and allowed only one runner as far as second base in posting his 12th complete game in a row.

His victory string and his 33rd career shutout each tied Cardinals' team records.

The Cardinals touched Chris Short, 9-10, for two runs in the fourth inning on Johnny Edwards' single. Two more scored in the fifth on Orlando Cepeda's double and Mike Shannon's hit, and Gibson doubled in the final run in the eighth as the Cardinals swept the four-game series, extending Philadelphia's losing streak to seven games.

Detroit, wrapped in a 6-9 slump since the All-Star break, raised its American League lead to 5½ games over idle Baltimore entering a three-game weekend series against the Orioles.

Northrup brought the Tigers in with a two-run shot in the first inning and a leadoff belt in the third, giving him 15 for the season and 59 runs batted in.

MADE IT EASY

The homers made it easy for Joe Spina, 8-9, who walked sixmen but allowed only a single by Paul Casanova before rain ended the contest after 6½ innings.

Atlanta had its troubles against the Mets' Dick Selma, who was coasting behind a one-hitter in a scoreless duel against Phil Niekro until his defence let him down.

With two out in the sixth inning, Felipe Alou tripled and third baseman Ed Charles booted a ground ball to break the tie. Hank Aaron's infield hit followed and then Torre unloaded his eighth homer.

World Series In Reality

NEW YORK (AP) — Imagine, if you can, a baseball series between the Tokyo Giants and the Peking Reds with Los Angeles Dodgers waiting in the wings to take on the winner.

A pipe dream? A fantasy? Not at all, baseball commissioner William D. Eckert said today to his close friend, Toru Shoriki, president of the Yomiuri Giants, perennial Japanese baseball champions.

"My aim is to see that baseball goes global that it's played by every country in the world," Eckert added.

"Only last night I was telling Ted Sorenson (adviser to the late president John Kennedy) that it's my aim to see baseball taken behind the Bamboo Curtain into Communist China.

"With supersonic travel in the offing, I see baseball going to every corner of the world, including Communist countries. It would do much to solve world tensions."

Shoriki, prominent Tokyo publisher and sportsman, paid a courtesy call on the commissioner, who was Japan's guest on a visit of the Los Angeles Dodgers two years ago.

Sandra Post Well Back In Open Golf Tourney

TORONTO (CP) — Carol Mann played under unusual strain but finished as the first-round leader Thursday in the $20,000 women's open golf championship.

"The pressure was really on because I felt I won the tournament last Sunday the wrong way and I had to prove something," the six-foot-three blonde said after carding a four-under-par 69.

Miss Mann was declared the winner of the Cincinnati Open last weekend after Marilyn Smith, the actual winner, was assessed a two-stroke penalty for slow play.

Sandra Post, the only Canadian on the U.S. women's professional circuit, and Sharon Miller of Battle Creek, Mich., blamed slow play warnings for their disappointing showings Thursday.

Miss Post was 10 strokes behind the leader with 79 and Miss Miller, who had a three-under-par 70 in the pro-am test Wednesday, finished with 77.

Miss Mann received a similar warning but praised the officiating and the course.

Marlene Stewart Streit of Toronto, one of the 18 Canadian amateurs playing in the 54-hole medal-play tournament, tied for second place with Pam Barnett and Sandra Spuzich, both of the U.S., at two-under 71.

Only two other golfers—Americans Patty Berg and Clifford Ann Creed—managed to break par over the 6,418-yard Bayview Golf and Country Club course. Each had a 72.

Amateur Jocey Bourassa of Shawinigan Falls, Que., Americans Jo Ann Prentice, Gloria Ehret, Sandra Palmer, Sharon Miller and Sybil Griffiths and Gerda Whalen of West Germany all finished at par 73.

Using the customary three-wood off the tees, Miss Post appeared to have trouble with her drive and hooked and sprayed frequently.

"I've just never played like that before," said Miss Post, tears in her eyes.

Canada's first U.S. women's pro golfist, upset over slow play warnings issued to her and her partners, blamed her poor showing on the rush of the play.

"We were almost running out there," she said.

The 20-year-old Oakville, Ont., shotmaker, who won the LPGA title five weeks ago, was making her pro debut before a gallery of some 300 Toronto and hometown fans, a good crowd for women's golf.

"I've just never played like that before," she said in an interview. "I didn't take a practice swing. I didn't even get a chance to read putts. I just stepped up and hit them."

Tournament supervisor Len Wirtz said several groups were warned.

"The amateur in that (Sandra's) group took 89 shots and was in the trees on the eighth where the first back-up occurred," said Wirtz.

However, Miss Mann had nothing but praise for the officiating.

Unseeded Tennis Player Offers Strong Challenge

VANCOUVER (CP) — Steve Stefanki of Los Altos Hills, Calif., an unseeded player, offers a strong challenge in the boys under-18 semi-finals today at the Canadian junior open tennis championship.

Stefanki, 17, started his rise towards the under-18 title Wednesday when he defeated Bill Washauer of San Francisco, the top-ranked American and the eighth-seeded under-18 player in northern California.

Stefanki followed up Thursday with a 2-6, 6-1, 7-5 win over Scott Dunlop of Ottawa, fourth-seeded Canadian.

Today he faces first-ranked Canadian Jim Boyce of Toronto in a semi-final match. Boyce, also 17, won the boys under-16 championship at last year's closed tournament in Ottawa and was the Ontario boys under-18 winner early this year.

Alberto Riba of Barcelona, Spain, fifth foreign seed, defeated Chip Fisher of Palo Alto, Calif., the third ranked American, in a quarter-final match Thursday and plays Bill MacDonnell of Toronto in the semi-finals. MacDonnell is the third-ranked Canadian.

Canadians shone in the girls under-18 quarterfinals Thursday. Top American Pat Bostrom of Seattle lost 6-1, 8-6 to Karen Will of Clarkson, Ont. Top Canadian Jan O'Hara of Toronto beat fourth foreign seed Lucy Kable of San Diego and second American seed Jane Richardson of Hollywood lost to Michele Carey of Vancouver 3-6, 9-7, 6-3.

Miss O'Hara plays third-seeded Carey in the semi-finals today with second Canadian seed Janice Tindle of Vancouver playing Miss Will.

COMPETES UNDER 16

Fisher is still alive in the boys under-16 competition in which he is the first-ranked American. He defeated unranked Mike Epstein of Vancouver Thursday and plays third-seeded American Peter Lichtman of Los Angeles in the semi-finals. The first-seeded Canadian, Pat Garney of Toronto, is to play second foreign seed Jim McNairy of Pacific Palisades, Calif.

Cecilia Rosada of Mexico City was defeated in the girls under-16 event as she entered the semi-finals against unseeded Gloria Thomas of San Diego. Miss Rosada, the top foreign seed in the tournament, is the under-16 champion of Mexico.

Miss Will, also entered in the under-18 semi-finals, plays second-ranked American Donna Kellock of Richmond, Calif., in the girls under-16 semi-finals.

Both first and second American seeds in the boys under-14 event have been eliminated, leaving the semi-finals to four Canadians. Third seed Craig Dunlop of Ottawa plays second-seeded Frank Scott of Vancouver and Roddy Wark, also of Vancouver, plays Mark Walker of Sarnia, Ont. Both are unseeded.

Mounties Spoil A Birthday By Defeating Tacoma Club

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Vancouver Mounties crashed Tacoma Manager Whitey Lockman's 42nd birthday party Thursday night by handing the Cubs a 3-1 Pacific Coast League setback.

Righthander Don Yingling scattered seven hits in going the distance for his ninth victory in 16 decisions.

The evening wasn't a total loss for Lockman. Fans presented him with no less than 91 birthday cakes in pre-game ceremonies.

Elsewhere, Oklahoma City trounced Tulsa 8-3, Indianapolis edged Phoenix 4-3 in 11 innings, Spokane blanked Hawaii 10-0 and Portland trimmed San Diego 8-7 in 12 innings.

Minnesota of the American League routed its Denver farm club 8-2 in an exhibition contest.

Keith Lampard slugged his third home run in two nights to pace the Oklahoma 8ers over Tulsa. Rookie Bob Watkins was credited with the victory. He yielded only five hits and struck out nine, but also walked eight, hit one and wild pitched home two Tulsa runs.

Dick Kennedy's two-out bloop single scored a run in the 11th inning and brought Indianapolis its victory over Phoenix, ending an eight-game Indian losing streak.

Joe Moeller shut out Hawaii on seven hits to gain his 12th victory of the season as the Spokane Indians scalped the Island-ers.

A run in the 12th inning gave Portland its triumph over San Diego. The Padres tied the game 7-7 in the ninth inning when Rich Barry's single scored Doug Clemens. The Beavers' cause was helped with homers by Jose Vidal and Bill Davis.

Homeniuk Leads Open

EDMONTON (CP) — The tough Edmonton Country Club course yielded only four sub-par rounds Thursday in the first round of the Alberta open golf championship.

Will Homeniuk took a commanding lead in the tournament with a five-under-par 66, three strokes ahead of Herb Holzschner of Toronto.

Vaughn Trapp of Victoria and Robert Young of Toronto were tied for third at 70.

Homeniuk, playing a precise game, missed only two greens and scored a three-under-par 33 on the front nine followed by a two-under-par 33 on the back nine.

Homeniuk said the course was the best conditioned he had played on in Canada and "if you get a good shot you get credit for it."

Club professional Brian Cogg who Thursday shot a 74, said the course would receive additional toughening before today's round.

The tees would be moved back and the pins given tougher placements from their relatively easy positions Thursday.

Art Travels In Okanagan

With BETHEL STEELE

Thanks to the B.C. Centennial Fund some of the province's cultural bright is presently on tour in the Okanagan. I refer to the Emily Carr show now in the Kelowna regional library boardroom . . . courtesy the Vancouver Art Gallery.

Perhaps this is the time to clarify the place of the VAG in the provincial art scene. It is not a provincial institution . . . but is a civic gallery . . . the largest such in Canada. Therefore we owe a great debt of gratitude to the Van-couver institution for its shouldering a responsibility most such would shun because of the wide ramifications involved in touring a number of priceless paintings.

Emily Carr is known to most Canadians by legend and by her writings. She is to the west coast what the Group of Seven was to the east. To this column she represents a part of a childhood involved in the coming to grips with an aware-ness of the workings of the human creative drive and an understanding of those possessed by it. And her paintings possess for me a spiritual involvement rich in memories of the beauty of my native land.

There is a mystical aura about these paintings with which one cannot help becoming involved . . . for they speak to all of us who have ever wished to withdraw from the conven-tional world of every day living.

I have gone back and back to the Emily Carr room at the Vancouver gallery particularly to the larger paintings into which one can seemingly walk. They are part of the whole spiritual feeling in nature.

These forest pictures and those encompassing the sky belong to the late 30's and the forties to the time of her death. She had become disillusioned with the Indians and therefore with her Indian motifs. Her best work combines the spirit of the Indian with that of the forest. Who can deny the strength of the Raven or of the timber "Beloved of the Sky."

Early in her life from 1914 for 15 years she did not paint because of the unacceptance of her work by the world . . . then in 1927 came her first showing in the National Gallery . . . Ottawa . . . made possible by Eric Brown and Marius Barbeau, with the influence of the group of seven shown in the simplification of the Indian figures (Totems). In 1930 she moved out of the pure Indian motif into the forest.

It was in nature that Emily Carr came to grips with her-self.

Travelling with the showing is Mr. James Shearer, assist-ant curator of the Vancouver Art Gallery. We are grateful to him for his help in our endeavor to crystallize everything we have ever felt about Emily Carr.

It is interesting to note that even early Wednesday morn-ing there were crowds of people flocking to the library board-room. People must be hungry for the beautiful. A pity the showing could not stay longer in each centre . . . Two days is hardly enough time . . . one should be able to return often . . . to savour all the depth of meaning.

The local liaison is the Kelowna Art Exhibit Society and the Kelowna Community Arts Council. A great big thanks to both organizations.

More Cabinet Ministers Now Than Offices For Them To Use

OTTAWA (CP) — What do you do when there are more cabinet ministers than there are ministerial suites in the Parli-ament Buildings?

You call in some carpenters and tell them to knock down a few walls.

There is enough office space for the 264 members of the new Parliament, but it is not all of the right kind. There are 29 cab-inet ministers and only 26 suites available for them. The present cabinet is the largest in Cana-dian history.

"It's no joke, but we'll pull through," Liberal whip Bernard Pilon told a reporter.

Mr. Pilon has the ultimate re-sponsibility for seeing that every Liberal is a quartered somewhere in the block of of-fices allocated to his party, after the government House leader, Donald Macdonald, de-cides where all the ministers are going to be.

TRUDEAU MOVES Most holdovers from the last Lester B. Pearson cabinet will probably stay where they are. Mr. Macdonald himself is an ex-ception. A parliamentary assist-ant before, he now is Privy Council president as well as House leader and will need a three-room suite.

Another exception is the for-mer justice minister, Pierre El-liott Trudeau, who has moved into the prime ministerial cub-icle just a flight of stairs away from the entrance to the Commons chamber.

When the existing suites are all handed out, and three min-isters remain, each extra min-ister will get two rooms side by side and a door will be carved out of the wall between them.

Simple. And the sergeant-at-arms, Lt.-Col. David Currie, VC, will have the work done as soon as Mr. Macdonald lets him know where all the ministers are going to be.

In most cases, the ordinary MP has no private office. His secretary works in the same room with him.

Senior opposition MPs and parliamentary assistants to cab-inet ministers do better. They have a sort of sandwich ar-rangement. Two of them take a three-room suite, in which their secretaries work in the middle room.

Party leaders and some for-mer cabinet ministers in the op-position ranks occupy suites similar to those provided for the cabinet.

An MP can bring his own sec-retary to Ottawa, but few do. Most secretaries are selected from the House of Commons staff.

Soviet Navy Moves To Fill In Gap Left By British In East

NEW YORK (AP) — A top American admiral has told friends the Soviet Union is mov-ing quickly to fill the power vacuum left in the Indian Ocean by British withdrawal East of Suez.

Admiral John S. McCain Jr. says the Soviets already have a three-ship force patrolling in the area and probably will move more units into the region.

The force has greater fire-power and more mobility than American units now operating in the Indian Ocean area.

McCain said in a telephone in-terview today that the Soviet build-up there is part of the Rus-sians' worldwide emphasis on expanding their seapower.

"And I don't just mean naval units," he said, "but also ocean-ography, fishing and their mer-chant marine."

The U.S. is heavily outgunned by the Soviets who are operat-ing a force made up of a mod-ern cruiser, a destroyer and an oiler.

The American force consists of a small seaplane tender used as flagship and two destroyers. The Soviets, on the other hand, are free to roam the area without need for shore support, refuelling at sea from the oiler.

They have already shown the flag in India, Iraq, Iran, Soma-lia and several smaller coun-tries along the Red Sea.

Moments later a man who said he was speaking for a new-ly formed anti-Castro exile group, telephoned. The As-sociated Press and claimed credit for the attack as well as for two earlier bombs which did not ex-plode.

The caller said: "We have begun to commemorate the morning of the 26th of July. Commandos of the MNCC have attacked at 2:35 a.m. the of-fice of Evergreen magazine."

He said the attack was made because the magazine had published the Che Guevara diary "and because of their po-
